

Fishing In Cape Verde Islands

Sal, Boa Vista & Sao Vicente

The exit of the channel between Santo Antao and Sao Vicente is a magnet to big Blue marlin, and its huge drop offs and features are well known by international fishermen. The capture of huge Blue marlin in excess of 1000lb in the deep waters around San Pedro have built the Cape Verde islands reputation as one of the hottest new fishing areas in the world. With average fish of between 200 and 300 kilos and up to 20 strikes a day this is certainly a sport fisherman's paradise. Fishing runs from mid-March and to the end of November, with a high season between June and Sept. As well as Marlin Cape Verde has one of the hottest Wahoo bites on the planet alongside big tuna and sharks. Inshore fishing offers a wide variety of Snapper, Grouper, Amberjack, and Jack crevalle etc. High seas between November and January can be disruptive to inshore fishing. The cheaper option, but no less exciting on its day. 6mt light inshore boats are fast and mobile and will offer good sport for Novice and Expert alike.

Beach fishing also offers some good opportunities for hard fighting sport, we offer guided days with bait and drinks included.

The Islands are a true gem and generally undiscovered by tourists from the UK although Italian and German tourists have been staying in the islands for a while. With long, white sand beaches, upmarket hotels, fantastic winter sun, clear blue waters as well as green, mountainous interiors, perfect for trekking. The people and culture are a wonderful fusion of Africa and Brazil, where tribal drums meets the rhythmic samba. Closer to the UK than the Caribbean and Seychelles, yet with beaches as white, sea as clear, fantastic weather at prices you'll love.

A combination of favorable temperate climate and an idyllic unspoilt setting make the Cape Verde perfect choice for your next fishing trip or holiday.

Location

Sal, Boa Vista and Sao Vicente ISLAND

The Republic of Cape Verde as it is officially known is made up of 10 islands (9 are inhabited) and 5 islets with the most eastern island sitting 460km off the coast of North Senegal. The eastern islands are generally flat having been buffeted by the winds for millions of years. Glorious stretches of white sandy beaches and barren, and the Saharan like interiors make up a striking landscape which is proving a huge attraction for European tourists. The theory for the western islands is that they are 'younger'; Fogo and Brava for example have only been around for mere 100,000 years. These islands are very mountainous with wonderful hikes. The flight is only 5 ½ hours and with the islands being only 1 hour behind GMT, there is no jet lag.

Imagine a tropical island with Caribbean beaches and Seychelles clear blue water this close to home and you have the Cape Verde Islands.
